Dear Barbara,

Thanks for your offer to swap information. Could you please look up some information in the 1840 and 1850 census for South Carolina? I am trying to authenticate a connection between Joseph Nettles and John Hutchinson Nettles, whom I believe was Joseph's son. This is the information I have:

Joseph Nettles
born c.a. 1801
probably Charleston/Berkeley/Dorchester area married (1) Jane Hutchinson in or before 1827
children:
1. Esther Amelia Nettles
d.o.b. 6 August 1827
2. Joseph Blythewood Nettles
d.o.b. 24 March 1829
died: c.a. 1850
3. James Ransom Stuart Nettles
d.o.b. 28 January 1831
4. John Hutchinson Nettles
d.o.b. 27 May 1835
married: 15 September 1869 Frances Amelia Patrick died: January 1914

Joseph Nettles married (2) Anna Richardson in or before 1843
children:
1. Mary Jane Nettles
d.o.b. 18 July 1843
2. Abraham Matthias Nettles
d.o.b. c.a. 1845
3. Mourning Ezelia Nettles
d.o.b. 27 Feb. 1848
4. Noah Nettles
d.o.b. c.a. 1850

Any information you can find would be extremely helpful. Let me know if Received this information from Mrs. Vivian Lowther of Ridgeland.

Her grandmother researched the Smoak/Nettles line some years ago. This information recently surfaced. It answers so of the questions

I had asked earlier about the dates of marriage of Andreas Smoke and his 4 wives:

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN - HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN !!!

Guess what I got in the mail today ???? An offer for a copy of a book entitled: THE WORLD BOOK OF NETTLES from Bath, Ohio. They have apparently been warned however. The order form carried a money back guarantee plus the following disclaimer in bold print:

"No direct genealogical connection to your family or your ancestry is implied or intended."

Pray tell, if it doesn't pertain to my family or my line - why would I want it ??????????

Moss Point woman forms support group for grieving parents

Moss Point woman forms support group for grieving parents

By Ray Price | April 30, 2019 at 8:24 AM CDT - Updated April 30 at 8:24 AM

MOSS POINT, MS (WLOX) - A Moss Point mother is on a mission to help grieving parents who have lost their children to gun violence or other tragedies.

Nothing could have prepared Tamara Nettles to hear that her son was killed. People sent flowers and condolences but it wasn't enough to mend her broken spirit.

"You can say, 'I know how you feel but have never experienced that,'" Nettles said.

Nettles recently moved from San Diego to Moss Point. Once she arrived in South Mississippi, she quickly learned that other parents in the area were also grieving over their own children who had been murdered.

"I'm not the first, I'm not going to be the last," Nettles said.

Nettles wanted to create a place of healing for those parents. That's led her to start a grief support group to help parents who have lost their children to violent crimes. Her goal: to let those parents know that they don't have to suffer alone.

"I don't want another mother or another family to go through that because that's a pain that never ever goes away," said Nettles.

She continued: "They have to learn how to live a new normal and that new normal is very rough."

When her son Albert was killed, Nettles said she didn't leave the bed for almost a year and half. She knows that being outside can be some of the best medicine to help a parent get through a painful situation like losing a child.

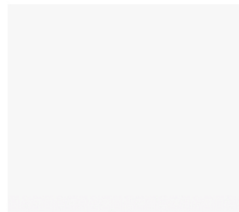

"When something like this happens, you don't want to be around people," she said. "You don't want to exist."

However, part of overcoming that overwhelming grief is by surrounding yourself with people who care, which is why she intends to have as many public outings with her support group as possible.

At Albert's funeral, and to her surprise, Nettles learned that he had been doing good deeds for people around San Diego before he died. Nettles said she felt it was her duty to continue his work.

Nettles is now dedicating her free time to this cause so that others parents will not have to feel alone.

"I would be a 24 hour contact for them if they need me," said Nettles.

Nettles says she still has her sad days but with the support of her family and this group, she knows everything will be okay.
